Daily Lecture Postponed Till Tomorrow 5 p.m. Red and White Group Meets Today at 5.30 p.m.

Vol. XXXV., No. 10 — Montreal, Monday, October 15, 1945 — PRICE TWO CENTS

STUDENTS SOCIETY WILL VOICE VIEWS ON ARGENTINE

Red and White Society Will Comprise 18 Teams To Boost Campus Spirit

To Name Leaders Of First 3 Units At Meeting Today

That its organization will call for the formation of 18 teams, each of which will consist of approximately 50 members, Dick Balfour, Chairman of the Organizing and Advisory Committee of the Red and White Society announced to the Daily yesterday.

Teams 1, 2 and 3, members of which are listed below, are requested to be present at a meeting to be held in the Union Ballroom this evening at 5.30, following the dispersal of the meeting of the Students' Society. Executives of the Organizing and Advisory Committee will be on hand, and elections will be held to appoint team captains, vice-captains, secretaries and treasurers.

A series of assignments have been drawn up in which the above teams will participate. The first activity, which will be carried out by Team No. 1, will be that of forming the nucleus of a torchlight parade to precede the War Memorial Benefit Football Game.

Team members will congregate on the Lower Campus at 7.15 p.m., and will move off directly to the Stadium, where, during the game scheduled to commence at 8, they will assist Roy Sheppard, recently appointed cheerleader. Price of admission to this game will be 25c for students. The proceeds will be donated to the War Memorial Benefit Fund.

Following the game a dance has been planned to take place in the Gym, at which Don Cameron and his 10-piece orchestra will play, and which will last until 1 a.m. Admission price for this function has been announced as 25c, for all students and graduates.

For the benefit of Dawson students, bus transportation has been arranged: buses will arrive at Roddick Gates at 7.15 p.m., time of departure for the return trip has been set at 12 midnight. Cost of the round trip to students will be 75c, and all are advised by the committee to meet at the door of the Gym at this time.

An assignment for Team No 2, more exact details of which will be brought out at tonight's meeting, is a similar one, and will consists of providing cheer support for the game with the University of Western Ontario, which will take place on October 20. Following this game, a tea-dance has been planned to take place in the gym from 5 to 8 p.m.

First function for Team No. 3 will call for still more cheer support at the game with Queen's, to take place on November 3rd.

Deadline Put Off For C.O.T.C. Gear

Deadline for the return of C.O.T.C. uniforms, previously set for today, has been extended for a week until October 22, it was announced by the Orderly Room over the week-eend.

With the policy of compulsory military training at universities discontinue dby government order, students have been returning uniforms and equipment since the opening of the term. Considerable equipment is still outstanding, however, and it was pointed out that students cannot be officially struck off strength until they have returned all property of the contingent in their possession.

Newly-styled uniforms are contemplated for students who plan to enrol for voluntary training, officers announced, and these students must also turn in their battledress and equipment.

During the next week the Quartermaster Stores at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium will be open at the regular hours—from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, October 22, final day for the return of equipment.

Three Veterans Victorious After Friday Elections

CLAYTON G. THOMPSON, President of the new Dawson College Undergraduate Society.

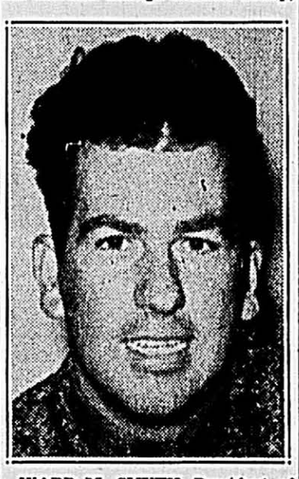
Dawson Elects First Officers; Thompson Prs.

Dejean, Smyth Also Returned In Friday Polls

Dawson College elected three ex-servicemen as their student representatives for the coming year in polling held on Friday. Clayton G. Thomson is the first President of the Dawson College Student Group, while Edward DeJean and Ward A. Smyth were chosen Presidents of First Year Engineering and First Year Science respectively. Final returns show that approximately 53 per cent. of the student body at Dawson exercised their power of franchise, with 43 per cent. of the First Year Science men, and 66 per cent. of the First Year Engineers going to the polls.

The exact figures of the voting were as follows: President of the Student Group: Joseph Cadloff, 139; Clayton G. Thompson, 232. President of 1st Year Engineering: Edward DeJean, 121; James Spencer, 79. President of First Year B.Sc.: Leo Kolber, 42; Ward A. Smyth, 128.

These three men will form a committee which will be in charge of Dawson College student affairs until such time as that committee sees fit to enlarge its membership. All were elected on a general platform which promised to try to alleviate the present financial strain on veterans' budgets, and to arrange to the best advantage a program of extra-curricular activities, both social and athletic, at Dawson College.



WARD M. SMYTH, President of First Year Science at Dawson College.

Dr. Selye Called To New Position At U. of Mont'l.

Noted Endocrinologist Will Also Work Here Until Position Filled

Dr. Hans Selye, professor of histology in the Faculty of Medicine, has accepted a post on the staff of the University of Montreal. At the same time he will continue to fill his office at McGill until a successor can be found. Dr. Selye, one of the world's leading endocrinologists, will head the newly-created Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery, and will also be a professor of experimental medicine and surgery.

Dr. Selye has studied at universities in Prague, Paris and Rome, as well as McGill, and is a member of the Rockefeller Foundation. After returning to Prague for a time, he accepted a post at McGill under Dr. Collip in the Department of Biochemistry. There, along with Dr. Collip, and Dean Thomson, he published a number of papers on hormones and similar subjects.

Later he became assistant professor and then associate professor of histology in the Department of Anatomy. In this capacity he built a large group of graduates, and continued his research along the same lines, publishing a number of papers and beginning an encyclopedia on endocrinology.

Dr. Selye's new post gives him, with his associates, excellent facilities for research. Spacious laboratories, complete with up-to-date equipment, and a library of 200,000 books will soon be available. Professors for the teaching of endocrinology will be grouped and an exchange of professors between McGill University and the University of Montreal is planned.

Meeting

There will be a meeting of all married students interested in obtaining housing in the music room of the union at 6 p.m. today.

Navy Commissar From Yugoslavia Visits University

His Ship Departs Soon Repleted With Supplies For Ravaged Homeland

On Saturday morning Captain Stacko Doric, Commissar in the Yugoslav Navy, paid a visit to McGill. He is stationed on the merchant ship Marija Petrinovic now preparing to bring wheat, clothes and medical supplies from Canada to Yugoslavia.

Captain Doric fought for three years in Tito's partisans, and was engaged in the two-months siege of Split, his native city in Dalmatia. He was recently loaned to the navy as Political Commissar, where his job has been to instruct the crew in political affairs, and keep discipline and prevent drinking, card-playing and swearing on board ship, leaving the captain of the ship the task of piloting alone, as is the custom of the Yugoslav Navy.

The Commissar was impressed by the Redpath Library, which, he stated, "is what we need in Yugoslavia, since all our libraries were destroyed by the enemy." He visited Dean MacMillan and thanked him for the books which McGill sent to Yugoslavia, and which are already being used by the students there. The Dean replied that he hoped more could be done for the students of Yugoslavia, and expressed the wish that there would in future be an increasing exchange of students between Canada and Yugoslavia, as "it is only by getting our peoples together that we will be able to ensure peace in the years to come."

"Marshal Tito has the support of the whole Yugoslav people, and of 90 per cent. of the Serbians alone," stated Captain Doric. "Though Mihailovitch began by fighting against the enemy, in February of 1942 he went over to the Germans, showing that he was fighting not for his country but for himself and the king. He is now considered a traitor to his nation," he said.

PETITION SIGNED BY 800 CALLS FOR MEETING IN UNION BALLROOM AT 5 P.M.

Resolutions to Be Presented

To the Government of Argentina . . .

Whereas the Argentine Government has restricted civil liberties, academic freedom, freedom of assembly, speech and the press,

Whereas the Argentine Government has violently suppressed the peaceful demonstrations of its students and citizens, and

Whereas such suppression is contrary

1) to the principles of the Atlantic Charter
2) the conditions by which Argentina was admitted to the United Nations and
3) its obligations under the act of Chapultepec.

Therefore we the students of McGill University strongly protest the actions of the Argentine Government and call upon that Government to fulfill its obligations under its international agreements and to restore the rights of academic freedom, of freedom of speech, assembly and the press.

To the Students of Argentina . . .

Whereas you, the students of Argentina, are now struggling against the undemocratic actions of the Argentina Government in all fields of activity.

Whereas you are fighting for academic freedom and democracy,

Whereas we recognize that one of the first manifestations of fascism is the suppression of free speech and assembly,

Whereas, to our knowledge, two students were killed and eighty wounded by government police using fascist methods in an attempt to suppress the peaceful demonstrations whereby you showed your disapproval of government policies,

Whereas we, the students of McGill University are in complete sympathy with your aims and desires to achieve democracy in your country.

Therefore be it resolved that we condemn the actions of the military dictatorship of Argentina. We express our full support to you students in your struggle against these fascist methods and proffer our deepest sympathy to the families and friends of those students who gave their lives for freedom and democracy in Argentina.

To the Students of Canada . . .

Whereas the students of Argentina have taken up the fight against the military dictatorship which has suppressed all democratic rights in Argentina,

Whereas two students have been killed, and 80 wounded, to our knowledge, during peaceful demonstrations against the repression of free speech and assembly at the universities,

Whereas these events affect all peoples throughout the world in that we must recognize that fascism, and all fascist tendencies must be destroyed in all parts of the world if this war, so recently won, is to bear fruit,

Whereas students are particularly concerned with the suppression of academic freedom,

Whereas we, the students of McGill University have sent expression of our solidarity to the students of Argentina, have sent a protest to the government of Argentina, and a resolution to the Canadian Government demanding that our government take action to have the Argentine dismissed from the United Nations organisation, and that Canada break off diplomatic relations with Argentina,

Therefore, we call upon all other student bodies in Canada to address themselves to these problems, and to take similar action,

And we also resolve that the President of the Students' Society instruct the Secretary to cable this resolution to all other Canadian University student bodies immediately upon conclusion of this meeting.

To the Government of Canada . . .

Whereas the government of Argentina was admitted into the United Nations organisations by Canada and the other nations of the world at the San Francisco Conference on condition that she sign the final document of the Mexico City Pan-American Conference which includes a reaffirmation of the Atlantic Charter,

Whereas the Atlantic Charter was drawn up to ensure the liberty and freedom of all peoples, stating specifically in the third clause: "They wish to see the sovereign rights of self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them."

Whereas the Argentine Government has not fulfilled the conditions which were placed upon her,

Whereas we know from past experience that the rise of fascism has always been accompanied by violence and oppression, including the persecution of students, for example, the action taken against the students of Prague on November 17, 1939,

Whereas Canada has lost many lives in the struggle against fascism, and the people of Canada have devoted their energies during the past six years to ensure the defeat of fascism so that peace may be restored throughout the world,

THEREFORE, be it resolved that we, the students of McGill University, strongly voice our disapproval of the Argentine Government, and call upon the Canadian Government to demand the expulsion of Argentina from the United Nations Organization,

Also, be it resolved that we ask the Canadian Government, which represents the desires of a democratic people, to break off diplomatic relations with the Argentine Government.

Student Attendance Is Urged in Motion By Executive Council

Called to protest the action taken by the Government of Argentina against the students of that country, a meeting of the McGill Students' Society will be held in the Union Ballroom at 5 p.m. today. A resolution strongly urging all students to attend this gathering was passed by the Students' Executive Council last Thursday as a result of a petition circulated on the Campus last week, and signed by over 800 members of the student body. G. H. Fletcher, secretary of the Students' Society, received the petition late Thursday afternoon.

The Council also passed a motion condemning the Argentine Government for its undemocratic action in violently suppressing the peaceful protestations of Argentine students against their government.

Stirred by press reports describing the attacks on Argentine students during the course of which 80 were wounded and one girl killed by the Buenos Aires police, McGill students formulated a petition calling for a protest meeting. According to the Constitution of the McGill Students' Society, a minimum of 25 members of the Society must sign a petition in order to have a meeting called.

Agreement on the backing of the petition was reached by the Students' Executive Council and the decision made to hold this afternoon's meeting.

Other Meetings Postponed

The Students' Society meeting replaces one which had originally been scheduled for the same time and place by the Red and White Society, and which will be held immediately after the mass gathering, at 5.30 p.m. The third Daily lecture on journalism, also scheduled, has been postponed to Tuesday at 5.00 p.m.

MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS

Women students who have not been medically examined before the 15th of October will be fined $5.00

The final date for examination of men students has been postponed to the 22nd of October. Men who are not examined before this date will be fined $5.00.

Make your appointments at once.

Vets to Occupy Morgan House; First 18 Will Move in Soon

The Veterans' Housing Committee has made arrangements with McGill University to house veterans in "Morgan House," 3619 University street, opposite the Medical Building, it has been announced.

Over a dozen rooms will be available, and it was originally planned to admit 34 men. Due, however, to the fact that some 40 attended the meeting held on Friday evening, at the house it will be necessary to crowd more in.

Priority for rooms will go to those who have no place to live, or who are at present paying the highest rent. The University will provide minimum furnishings, which will be paid for by the students running the building in the course of time. At the latest report, beds have been secured for 18 students, who are expected to move in very soon. A half dozen tables and bureaus have also been bought from Zeta Psi Fraternity.

Morgan House will be operated the year around at cost. It is not as yet a cooperative enterprise, although it may become so later. The running of the house will be in the hands of a committee of six, elected by the residents, and this committee will have a limited responsibility to the University authorities. Facilities for board may be set up later on, but it will be necessary first to obtain the requisite equipment as cheaply as may be.

The building was bought by McGill University around June, 1944, with the intention of using it as extra laboratory space for Dr. Hans Selye, professor of histology in the Faculty of Medicine.

Then a rooming house, it was taken over by the University in June 1945. However "due to faculty's inability to obtain a building permit," stated Dr. Selye in an interview, "plans were brought to a forced halt." The premises have remained vacant to date.

Music by Blake Sewell Is Featured At Coming Annual Masquerade Ball

The Ninth Annual Masquerade Ball will be held in the Union Ballroom on Friday night, October 19. Music for the evening will be provided by Blake Sewell, who will play from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m., with a half hour intermission at 11.30 during which a cabaret-style supper will be served at tables in the Ballroom. As in previous years the dance will be essentially a costume affair, although formal attire will be in order as an alternative dress. Tickets for the Masquerade Ball will sell for three dollars per couple, and the executive of the Club has announced that sales will be restricted to 160 couples to prevent overcrowding.

The Masquerade Ball is the only annual costume ball on the McGill campus, and has been featured in the Union Ballroom every year but one since its inception in the fall of 1936. Last year it was held in the spring, but it was felt advisable to change it this year in order to enable the Cosmopolitan Club, who sponsors the dance, to increase the scope of its activities in keeping with the return to peacetime conditions, and also to give the Club a chance to introduce itself to the incoming class, an opportunity that was offered in the past by the sponsoring of a freshman dance.

The pattern of last year's Masquerade Ball is being followed very closely again this year, the Chairman of the dance committee said last night. The choice of orchestra, time, place and the caterer being unchanged. Also following the pattern of the past four Masquerades, the committee has planned a costume parade immediately after the supper intermission, during which a committee of judges will pick out the best and most original costumes present, and will award the wearers a number of prizes donated for the occasion by some of the leading firms in the city.

To give all students an equal chance to secure tickets from the 160 that are available, the committee has arranged to distribute them as widely as possible both at McGill and at Dawson College. At McGill, tickets may be secured either from the Union Tuck Shop, from any member of the Club executive or from a number of student canvassers. At Dawson College the tickets are obtainable from Tom Peake, Basil Smith or Mr. Franz Edelmann.

Daily Talk Postponed; Dawson as Scheduled

The Daily lecture on "Interviews and Human Interest," scheduled for today on the campus has been postponed till tomorrow at 5 p.m. due to the Students' Society meeting. It will be given in the Ballroom of the Union by the Editor-in-Chief of The Daily. This is the third in The Daily lecture series on journalism.

Doreen Richter, Managing Editor, will give a lecture on "News Style and Attitude" tonight at Dawson College at 8 o'clock as scheduled. The second of The Daily's lecture series on journalism, it will be held in Room 2 of Building 47.

Details of English 2 To Be Given Monday

About three hundred students at Dawson College are now taking English 2. It is planned that full details of this course will be released by next Monday, Oct. 22.

Lists for conference and composition groups are to be posted today, and details about the library facilities will be available at some later date.

Dean MacMillan, who lectured to the English 2 group last Friday, will continue to lecture at different times during the year, assisted by another lecturer whose name has not been announced. It was learned that Mr. Dando will not lecture at Dawson College.

No Munich for Us

McGill students have taken the initiative in a matter of the greatest importance . . . it is impossible to describe the pride and gratification with which we write these words. The students of this university are meeting this afternoon to consider ways and means to help their colleagues in Argentina who are still under the yoke of a form of fascism. But not only that: on Saturday a committee of representative and interested students met and formulated four resolutions which are to be presented to the meeting today. In this way a lot of time will be saved which would otherwise have been spent in finding the correct wording for the motions before the students .The fact that these resolutions have been formulated does not mean that there will not be an opportunity to amend them in any way the majority may see fit, but a basis has been established, and the work of the meeting will be far lighter.

The four resolutions are to go to the Argentine Government, to the students of that country, to the Canadian Government, and to the students of other Canadian universities. The first two may be regarded as a significant gesture on our part . . . a message of protest to the oppressor and a note of sympathy to the oppressed. But the third and fourth resolutions are of far greater import; here are two contributions of free, democratic students to the long and hard fight against military despotism; moreover, the third resolution cannot exist without the fourth, and vice versa. An appeal to the Canadian government by McGill students alone would certainly not have the effect of a united action by all the students of Canada. On the other hand McGill's action will give an incentive to the other universities who are being kept informed unofficially by the Canadian University Press, and officially through the Students' Executive Council, by virtue of an amendment attached to the last resolution. If Canada's universities follow McGill's lead, some definite action by our government to help those who are still fighting for the basic rights we defended through six long years of war can be expected.

We are glad to note that the committee which formulated the resolutions decided to meet again in two weeks to consider the results of tomorrow's action, and to make further plans, if necessary.

As they stand, the resolutions read well, and today's meeting will serve to brush up on any points that may have been omitted. But before any concrete results can be expected from our actions, there still remains one important point which has to be remembered. The meeting has been called, because 800 students signed a petition demanding an action to ensure the peace and prosperity of the world. But the petition and the resolutions will be without the slightest value if those who signed the petition consider that they have done their part by affixing their signature to a document. Far from it. Their part in this important matter will only begin tomorrow.

Let us not return to the shoulder-shrugging era of the 30's, when the slogan of political escapism in the Western democracies was: "What can we do about it?" Let us not witness another Munich on the campus of McGill University, and give way to the persuasive voice of evil. The evil has many garbs . . . one of them is lethargy. Let those who would rather have coffee at 5 p.m. today remember, that democracy is government BY the people, and that this nation and this university, by virtue of their splendid war record have shown themselves to be clearly in favour of that form of government.

When democracy is threatened in any part of the world it is the people of the world, and only the people, who can resurrect it. Under the rule of fascism, today's meeting would be impossible. Let us see McGill turn out to fight for the rights of freedom not only in Argentina, but as the Munichs of yesterday have shown, for the preservation of that right all over the world. Then, perhaps, we will not have to fight on the beaches again.

Letter Forum

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Sir,—Allow me to give a humble cheer for the new Red and White Society . . . At last good old "campus spirit" is to be re-enthroned in the good old pre-war style . . . Rah.

I must urge you, sir, to support this cause to the utmost within the columns of your newspaper and to help fan the projected collegiate frenzy of the Red and White Society. The war is over and we must strike while the iron is hot and the brain soft. Rah. Rah.

You must also point out, sir, that if the aims of the Society are at present humble in scope there are unlimited horizons for the future, for in the fruition of good old campus spirit is the elixir for our doddering, spiritless university. There are still medieval tinges of academic dignity within our gates; these we can scoop out and smother if we can get enough jivey maniacs behind the Red and White Snowball and enough momentum into its mad careen. Rah. Rah. Rah.

Think, sir, of the glory The Daily will be able to reflect in its columns if we can ever get back to and surpass the spirited scholasticism of the Joe College Era: a whirl of gay dances (tea, football, snake, and just-plain-dances), torchlight parades, nightclub demolitions, athletic scholarships, blanket-blonde-hip-flask-pennant-waving football games, Red and White automobiles and fraternity initiations with ordeal by fire and water. McGill . . . McGill . . . McGill . . .

Mr. Editor, unless we nurture this park, the elusive hysteria may escape us. You must print more application forms on Page 1 that we may sign, be saved and join the happy herd in its welter of campusly spirited activities. Yea, Team . . .

How else, sir, can we take our place among the gay universities of North America? How else can we gain the respect of this progressive hemisphere and join the national insanity? If our stodgy old profs can't discover eternal youth in their labs, at least we can aspire to eternal childishness (C'mon, Kid, let's go!)

With enough pep, sir, we can get pepped right back into the glorious nineteen twenties . . . We can join the American universities as lyceums of profound pranksters in check coats and razzle-dazzle roadsters . . . Our cloisters will resound to the loud halloos of pigskin pinheads; we can tear down the ivy so that our simpering co-eds can weave garlands for the tiny-headed athletes . . . We'll have bigger and better snowball fights, highlight of the academic year . . . A hell of a lot bigger if we can get the Principal and Chancellors to join the Red and White and lower the entrance marks so that we can get more blockheads to join us in our capers . . .

The trouble with McGill is that it is too dull and serious. Now that we've won the war let's cast off the tragic mask . . . We have saved our academic face for at least one generation. Our Redishness and Whiteism will be our entree into hemispheric hopheadism. Once we get into the huddle we'll be able to lick the pants off the dismal swots who plod around Oxford and the Sorbonne . . . The dull clods who don't even know how to form a snake dance or wreck a streetcar . . . Team-Team-Team!

The last vestiges of sanity and book-learning won't, Mr. Editor, be hard to trounce. Our moderation for these things is notoriously vulnerable.

The Red and White Society is at present limited and innocent in scope . . . But despair not, Mr. Editor, the seeds are fertile. We will, in time, storm the storied bastions of formal learning following our banner — Red and White knockers dormant on a field of ignorance flaunting in the breeze — and baying our battle-cry — "In Hoc Signo Vinces."

With a swig from the hipflask, one wave of the pennant, one rah, and three cheers for the faculty we shall leap into our checkered chariots and, with loud halloo, sail off into the dignity of the Brave New World.

"And the altars of the studious shall be banished from the land, and the idols of learning utterly cast down."

Yours for the millennium,
23 SKIDOO

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Sir,—May I, through the medium of the Daily, express my congratulations and sincerest best wishes to Mr. Clayton Thompson on being elected President of the Dawson College Student Group.

I am certain Mr. Thompson will prove to be a capable leader of the student body and that he will approach all problems with the integrity and sympathy I know is characteristic of him.

I would like to take this opportunity to pledge my fullest efforts in supporting any plans he may institute which would benefit the student body; and to offer my services in any capacity that may be of use to him in the carrying out of these plans.

May I also thank all those students who nominated and supported me in today's elections.

JOSEPH CADLOFF

By-Lines

First of all — an apology, to Bernard Davis B.Sc. 1, whose article "The Lost Battalion" appeared in last Friday's issue of The Daily without a by-line. This was an error of the part of the Feature Editor.

Secondly, the meaning of a by-line on the Feature Page. An article or column carrying a by-line signifies a personal opinion completely apart from editorial policy. It is requested, therefore, that writers who wish to remain anonymous choose some sort of pen-name, to show the student origin of the contribution. On this basi then, such articles as "Remember . . . The Spirit," which appeared in last Thursday's issue, should have carried a name.

Theatre Notes . . . . . around town

VICEROY SARAH

"Viceroy Sarah" as a stage play might have offered some insurmountable obstacles to its players and director with regard to pace and thus the achievement of an atmosphere of gripping suspense, but this group of Montreal Repertory actors and actresses succeeded for the most part in holding the intense interest of their audience.

The story takes place between the years 1704 and 1711 during the reign of Queen Anne of England. It takes us into the royal palace and tells about the Queen herself, her husband Prince George of Denmark, and their three very dear friends, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough and Lord Godolphin. The intent of the author was, of course, to make the characters and personalities of these people vivid and understandable — every scene takes place within the sombre confines of a palace chamber and consists of explanatory conversation, leaving the impression of action and strength almost entirely to the technique of the players. The first act seemed a little too slow in pace, but the second act speeded up and the remainder of the play climbed rapidly to the last scene and climax.

Eileen Clifford as Queen Anne and Mary Douglas as Abigail Masham, presented some of the best character acting of the evening in this observer's opinion. Eileen Clifford gave a complete and satisfying piece of acting. The climactic scene was hers and she carried it through triumphantly.

Mary Douglas as Abigail Masham, created by her very walk and movement of her head, her characterization of craftiness and over-ambition and so spread the atmosphere of discomfort and suspense.

Joy Lafleur, in the title role of "Viceroy Sarah," the Queen's closest friend, played the proud and beautiful Duchess with the poise and forcefulness befitting the role.

Incidentally, we quite agree with the director's decision to cut the last scene, and end with the climax, the Queen's heartbreaking outburst. It made for an effective curtain and completed the strength of the entire play. —R. D.

STRANGE FRUIT

The premiere performance of Lillian Smith's "Strange Fruit," staged and presented by Jose Ferrer, was given last Saturday at His Majesty's Theatre. To reduce this novel to a state of simplicity demanded by such an adaptation proved almost too great a task, for although some of the scenes were wonderfully direct and sincere, the play as a whole seemed lengthy and cumbersome. There were even scenes that could have been omitted without effect on the continuity of the plot.

One force, which acted to unify the play, was the amazing sets that were used. These sets achieved something in which the staging itself sometimes failed. They created a sweeping background in front of which was presented a concentrated part of that background. It was simplicity, involving a great deal more than one idea or one line of thought—it embraced a complete perspective, a complete way of life.

Some of the scenes created the same effect, without the slightest difficulty but others seemed to try to envelope too many minor details for the good of the main theme. This inconsistency was probably the basic weakness of the play. One of the most striking examples of this was the climactic scene of the death of Tracy Dean and the following scene at his home. This first contained some of the best acting of the play, creating an atmosphere of hate, fear, uncertainty, punctuated by such forceful effects as the frightened, confused child and Nonnie's numb movements. Following this, came a performance that did little justice to the cast. The scene at Tracy's home following his death was stilted and almost amateur. It was as though the words of an elementary dramatic teacher were being whispered back stage: keep your down-stage foot back, don't turn your back towards the audience, keep your head up, etc. etc. To say this was an anti-climax, would be an understatement.

Nevertheless the theme of the play remained direct and sincere for the leads were magnificent. Peter Griffith as Tracy Deen was almost consistantly good, bordering on the melodramatic only once in his drunken scene. Jane White, as Nonnie Anderson, was beautiful and graceful to a point of ballet in some of her scenes, and always deeply emotional without any superficiality. Other excellent performances were put forward by Juano Hernandez as the coloured doctor, Sam Perry, Dorothy Carter as Nonnie's sister Bess, and George Oliver as Ed.

There are some wonderful possibilities to this performance, but as it was presented Saturday night, there seemed to be too many loose ends that needed typing up, too many rough edges that needed smoothing off. Let us hope that these improvements are made, for it would be a pity to waste some of those effects and some of that truly great acting.

POLITICAL COMMENT

PALESTINE AND EUROPEAN JEWRY

In 1917 the Balfour Declaration, an open covenant, openly arrived at, assured World Jewry that Britain would eventually establish Palestine as a Jewish National Homeland. It seemed then as if at long last the long centuries of suffering and persecution had ended, and the "wandering" Jew was going home. For the Jews who went to Palestine began to rebuild the physically and spiritually desecrated land—they literally caused the desert to bloom. From Jewish efforts came a higher standard of living for both Jew and Arab, and the Holy Land began to prosper. Despite all obstacles between the two Wars, the foundations of a Jewish Commonwealth were established.

In 1939, the Chamberlain government passed the White Paper which limited Jewish immigration to 75,000 over a five-year period, and then immigration was to be curbed. At the time it was an expedient to win the Arab merchants and landlords away from their pro-Nazi line of thought, but proved only to lose Arab respect in the final analysis as tested by their complete non-interest in the survival of the United Nations.

Today the situation of European Jewry is in desperate plight. Over five million Jews were slaughtered for being just Jews—a fact so staggering and massive that it is incomprehensible to the human mind.

In July, 1945, Earl G. Harrison, United States representative on the Intergovernment Committee on Refugees, was sent by President Truman to investigate the needs of displaced persons in Western Europe, "particularly the Jews." Harrison wrote in his report that he had found "glaring inhumanity prevailing in many areas," that the liberators were as callous and indifferent as their Nazi oppressors had been savage and sadistic. The Harrison Report stated that many Jews are still clothed in hideous concentration camp garb, living in the same concentration camps, and often unable to present their grievances to Military Government authorities, "because, ironically, they have been obliged to go through German employees who have not facilitated matters."

The Jews in Europe were slaughtered for being Jews — the remaining few survivors wish to live out their broken lives in Palestine, and Harrison, recognizing that there is no returning to the countries of Europe for these mentally and physically exhausted people, asks that the gates of Palestine be opened to them.

Has the British Labour Government, which once so violently opposed the White Paper as "criminal," now begun playing the same old game of oil politics with America and power politics with the Soviet Union?

Surely mankind has not become so callous that the first victims of Nazi brutality, the Jews of Europe, should be forced to live out their lives in lands deep in the stench of concentration camps and gas chambers. Their only hope lies in unlimited immigration to the Holy Land, where they may live as Jews and hold their heads up as Jews once more.

Interfaculty Track Slated for Friday; Aspirants Sought

To Select Intercollegiate Team From Foremost Track-Field Candidates

The 73rd Annual Interfaculty Track Meet will take place at Molson Stadium commencing at 2 p.m. this Thursday, Oct. 18. All major track and field events will be contested.

Entrants are requested to sign the notice posted in the locker room at the gymnasium before Tuesday. Those taking part in the meet will be excused from lectures and laboratories Thursday afternoon.

McGill's Track Team will be chosen on the basis of the results of this meet. This team will compete against one from Toronto University in a resumption of annual track meets, the last of which was held in 1939 and saw McGill carrying off the honors.

Although the number of contestants will be swelled by a group from Dawson College, it is stressed that the turnout, especially in field events, has been inadequate for proper choosing of a team worthy to compete in Intercollegiate competition. A call is accordingly extended for all those interested to turn out. Information can be had by consulting Manager Bill Reid, or Chris Cook.

Grid Inaugural Tomorrow Rough Riders Rip Hornets

Deal Death Blow To Local Playoff Chances; Win 25-8

TREMBLAY STANDOUT

Displaying a marked superiority in all departments the Ottawa Rough Riders trounced the Montreal Hornets 25 to 8 in a regular I.R.F.U. fixture played at Molson Stadium Saturday night.

With two of their aces, Tony Golab and Ken Charlton sidelined with injuries, the Rough Riders were led to victory by veterans Tommy Daley and Wilf Tremblay. Golab was replaced by Johnny Abson who turned in a scintillating performance in the backfield. The mainstays for the Hornets were Surphilis, Garbarino and Campbell.

The boys from the Capital hit payoff dirt early in the first quarter when a Daley to Haig to Abson end run brought the ball from the midfield stripe to Montreal's 12. From this point Daley went over on a brilliant end run. George Fraser added the convert. For the next 10 minutes, Hornets held complete command of the play as Gabarino and Lamoureux each counted singles and the Montreal team held the play in their opponent's area.

Two lovely completed forwards brought Montreal their only touch of the game as Surphilis threw with accuracy to Campbell and Steele, the latter going over for a touch. Lamoureux added the convert and Montreal led 8 to 7.

However, from this point on the Hornets were entirely ineffective and the Rough Riders rode through the Montreal defence repeatedly. Sequin blocked a Montreal kick on their own one-yard line and Haig fell on it for a touch. Fraser added

Redmen to Engage Hornet Aggregate For City Laurels

TORCH PARADE SET

The 1945 edition of McGill's football entry will doff their wraps tomorrow when they play a seasoned Hornet squad under the ares at Molson Stadium for city championship. The local hopefuls will attend their last practice session today under the watchful eyes of 'Pop' Kerr and Co. before receiving their baptism of fire. A large attendance of students is expected in view of the fact that a real old fashioned torchlight parade has been arranged by Roy Sheppard, which will get underway at about 7 p.m. on the campus.

Paraders Favoured

In connection with the above statement, it has been emphasized that those students participating in the festivities will have the best seats in the student section reserved for them. The sections will be marked off for these enthusiasts and the remainder will be allotted the remaining seats. The purpose of the parade is to revive Intercollegiate spirit and to infuse into the new students and vets something of the pre-war standard of college punch.

The team that will take to the field looks to be the best since the days of '38 when the Redmen copped the Intercollegiate football title. With Bill Stronach doing the masterminding, Brian Little, Doug Heron and Sleepy Telford ripping through the line plus Murray Hayes,

Climax Is Near In Net Tourney Singles Contest

Faculty Play Continues U. of M. Enters Squad In Collegiate Matches

Vieing for a spot in the forthcoming intercollegiate tourney, contenders for the Men's Singles Tennis Tournament are having a hectic time of it as Intramural competition is nearing its climax. The series of matches originally scheduled for last weekend have been advanced to this afternoon. From the results of these matches, the Intercollegiate team will be chosen. The names of the players will be published in tomorrow's Daily.

Interest has been further increased by the recent announcement that the University of Montreal will join McGill and Toronto in the battle for Intercollegiate tennis honors.

Today's matches are as follows:

MacFarlane vs. Wight.
Jim Spencer vs. Daile.
McCormick vs. Duford.
D. W. Stairs vs. Kaszas.
McDowell vs. Kaszas—Stairs.
Ramsey vs. MacFarlane—Wight
Spencer vs. Marien.

Extensive Program Is Planned For Students by Outing Club

By the time you have read this column you will never again be able to say—"M.O.C.—what's that?"

Well gather around friend while we rectify your existing state of ignorance.

The McGILL OUTING CLUB had its beginnings with a small group of hard pioneers who thought nothing of skiing thirty or forty miles in one day, during the rugged years preceding the invention of the ski tow.

To anyone who has examined the possibilities for varied activities in the Laurentian playground, it is quite evident that there is plenty that could be done there and in the Eastern Townships. Skiing, rock climbing, cycling, hiking, clearing ski trails, any one of these is good for a day of good clean fun with a little exercise thrown in. The activities operate on a one day basis, that is, one can take the train up Sunday morning and return Sunday night. For the lucky ones who can take Saturday off, there is accommodation at Shawbridge, for about thirty people, boys and girls. During the last few years the Eastern Townships has been the scene of cycling and ski trips.

The Outing Club sponsors one or two excursions every weekend, usually, if possible, ending the day at Shawbridge with a banquet in the M.O.C. House. I say banquet advisedly since "meal" is much too ordinary a word to apply to these epics. There were 60 Outing Clubbers at Shawbridge over the Thanksgiving Weekend, always 40 at once, and not one starved—to death. In fact, until the rain stopped Monday, eating was the main activity, while singing ran a close second. Equipped with axes, clippers, billhooks, and scalpels, the gang attacked and nearly laid bare a hill just outside of Shawbridge, creating a very respectable downhill trail.

The M.O.C. operates on a strictly informal basis. In the club, introductions are an outmoded commodity, and we hold the title of "The C.P.R.'s worst dressed passengers." So leave your calling cards and

BASKETBALL

Basketball practice will not begin until near the end of October but any men who are interested may get a ball from the locker room attendant and practice any time when the floor is not in use.

The meeting of the M.W. S.A.A. to be held Monday at 4.30 p.m. has been postponed until Friday, same location, same time.

Dawson College Undertakes Varied Sports Program

Large Turnout Seen In Cage, Grid, Track; Orick Heads Setup

Sports at Dawson College has gotten under way with an eager representation in all departments.

Jerry Leonards, coach of last year's McGill Intermediate team, is in charge of basketball and from the 40 to 50 prospects who have shown up at practices, a representative team will be formed to be entered in the Montreal City Basketball League. An Intra-mural league will have the benefit of playing on a large gym floor.

Em Orlick, athletic's director, outlined the difficulty of carrying a football team, with equipment being short, but the spirit of the 50 to 60 hopefuls who plodded through Thursday's wet practice seems enough to surmount such minor difficulties.

Track and Field enthusiasts started training with plenty of gusto, considering the fact that they started much later than their competitors. However, with permission to use the cinder track, more candidates are expected to show up at the next training period.

Other sports, such as Soccer, are still in their Initial stages but several West Indian students have what it takes to make up a championship team. This team will face another McGill squad later in the season, with the possibility of the winners playing Varsity at Toronto.

The organization of sports at Dawson is under capable leadership and from early results it seems safe to predict that the College teams will make a good showing in all sports during the next season.

SPECIAL NOTICE

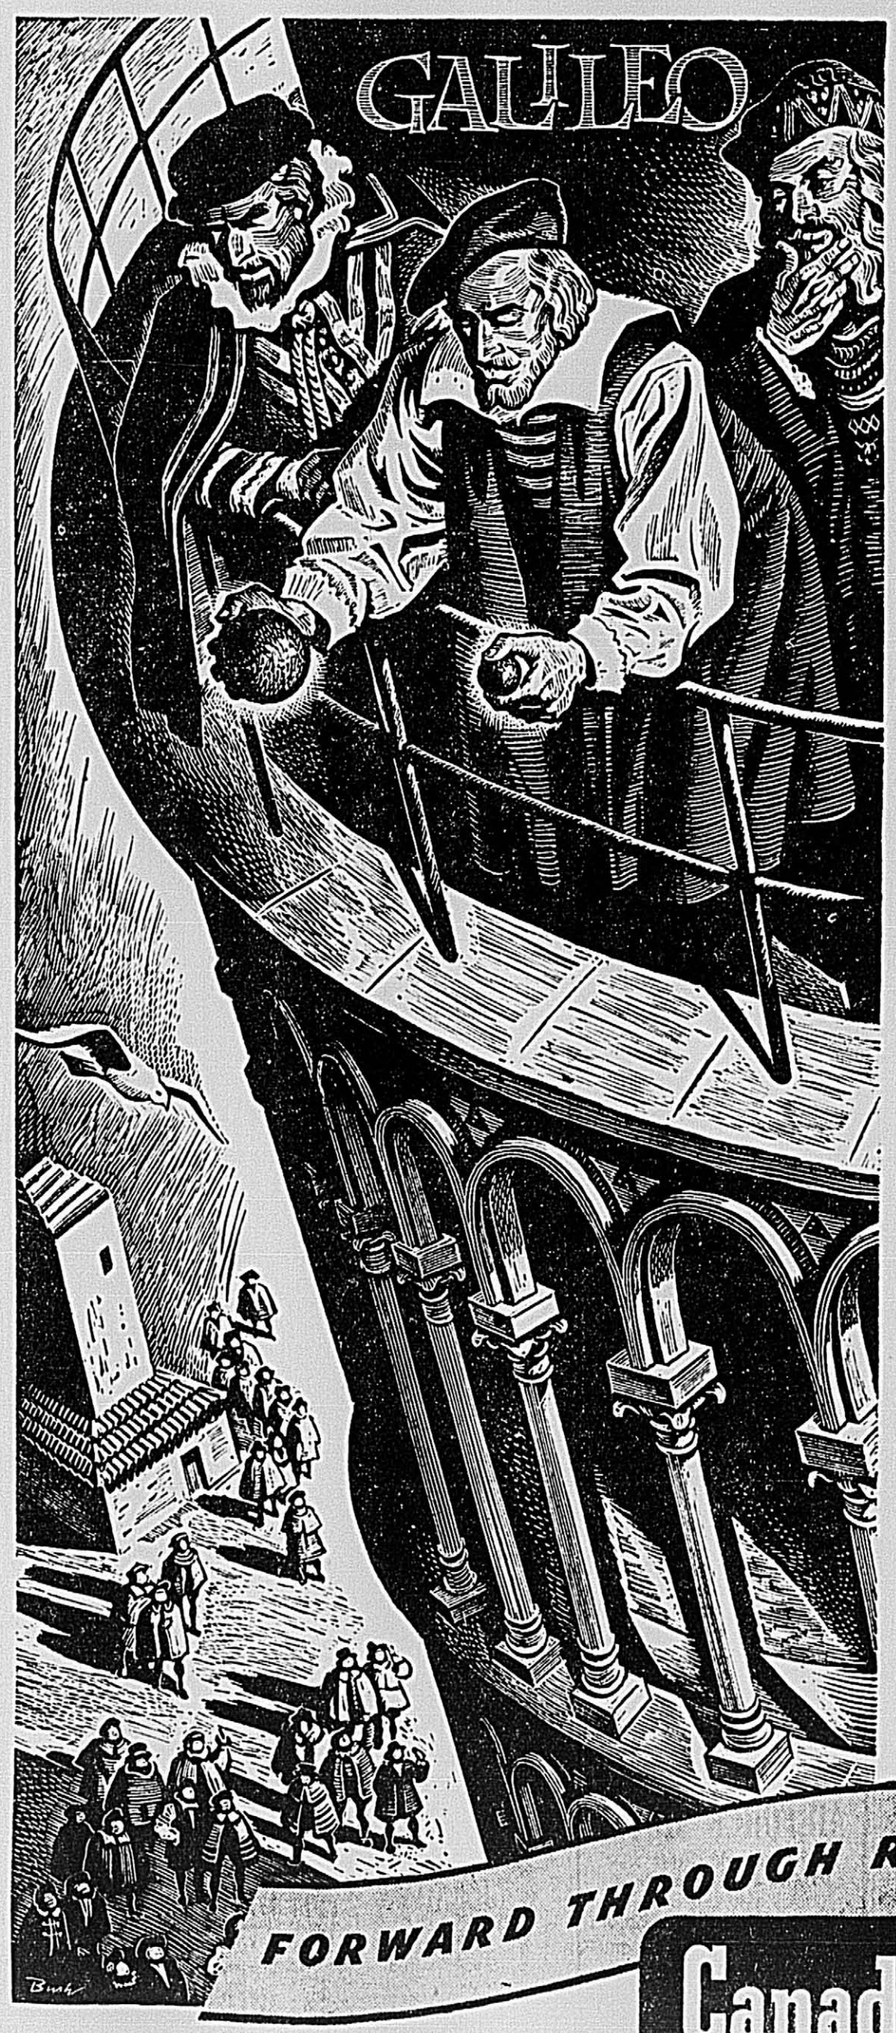
October 10, 1945.

Mr. G. H. Fletcher,
McGill Union.
Dear Mr. Fletcher,

I wish to inform you that all future notices to be placed on the General Notice Board at the entrance to the grounds of the University are to be submitted for approval to the Registrar, Mr. T. H. Matthews.

Will you please convey this information to all student societies.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) WM. BENTLEY,
Bursar.



He peered into the Unknown

Galileo, (1564-1642) invented an improved telescope, carried on research in magnetism and gravitation, discovered the principle of the pendulum. Contrary to previous teaching, he maintained that bodies of different weights fall with the same velocity. When challenged to prove this theory, he dropped a ten-pound shot and a one-pound shot from the top of the Leaning Tower of Pisa. To the amazement of the University students and faculty gathered to see the experiment, both weights reached the ground at the same time.

IN our own day, as in Galileo's time, research has opened the door to discoveries which have had far-reaching results.

In 1921, sales of Canadian Nickel were discouraging. Then the Nickel industry intensified its research endeavours. Year after year new ways were sought in which industry could use Nickel to make better products.

Sales of Canadian Nickel began to increase. They doubled . . . and trebled. Mines were enlarged. New plants were built. More men were employed. Great benefits came to Canada.

In the years after the war, Nickel research laboratories will push on their search for new uses for Nickel.

The information collected by International Nickel through years of metal research is available at all times to Canadian engineers, designers and metallurgists who need better materials for better products.

Thus will science and industry, working together, build a wider use of Canadian Nickel so that still more benefits will come to Canada.

your good clothes at home when you join the M.O.C.

Lest we risk a slug from our member in charge of riding, we better mention that Mount Royal occasionally resounds to the hoof beats of an Outing Club riding trip.

Joining the M.O.C. merely calls for a visit to Mrs. Hendrie at the Gymnasium Athletics Office. You lay down a simolean ($1.00), sign your name and pick up a badge, then you watch the Daily for developments.

The club has a constitution which will be explained along with the details of organization at an open meeting of the Club to be held later this month.

In the meantime, take a walk up the hill to the Gym and make ready to get in the fun. In fact anyone who can walk is tough enough for the MOC. Since girls joined the club we no longer ski forty miles in one day. In fact to to the great disgust of those early pioneers even the male Outing Clubbers have discovered that it's a lot easier to ski fifteen miles a day instead of forty.

the convert as the half time whistle blew.

Trimble's boys continued their touchdown march in the second half as Tremblay scored two converted majors. The first came when Tremblay picked up Campbell's fumble and dashed 55 yds. unmolested for the try. His second major effort came a few minutes later when he snared a long pass from Frank Dunlap in the end zone.

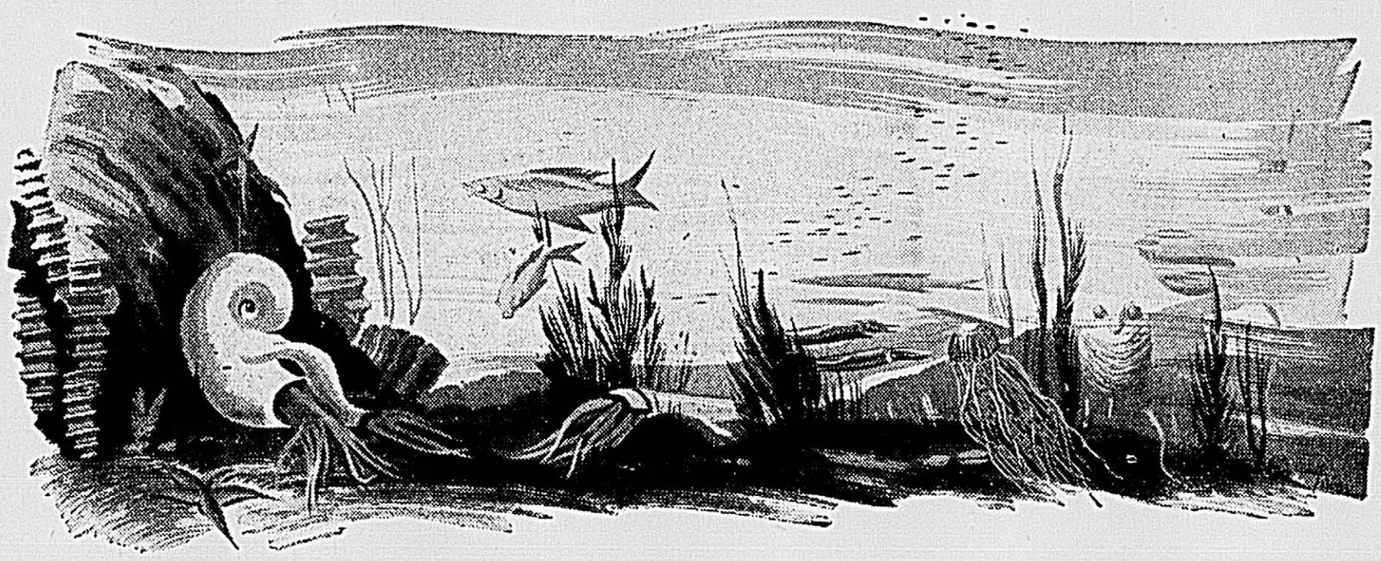
INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT OIL



HOW OIL WAS BORN

. . . MILLIONS* OF YEARS AGO . . .

Illustrated above is the birthplace of oil. Drawn from a model built by modern scientists, our picture shows the marine life that existed on the floors of ancient seas which covered large parts of our continents and more than half of Canada—300 million years before man came upon the earth.

A miracle took place

As generation after generation of these strange-looking plants and fish and underwater animals died, they settled down into the mud of the ocean bottom. And all the time, great prehistoric rivers were sweeping seaward the remains of animals and plants that lived in the forests. Along with millions of tons of silt, these too were deposited on the sea floor.

As the ages rolled by, a miracle took place. Buried under the salt water, the mud and silt turned to limestone and shale . . : the fatty parts of the plant and animal matter underwent a chemical change and became oil.

The earth's crust shifted

Then came a time of great upheaval, when the submerged lands thrust upwards, pushing back the shallow, inland seas. The old sea floors, with their layers of rock and oil, were cast up high and dry to form parts of today's continents.

Some of the oil seeped to the new earth's surface, to form asphalt pits such as are found in Trinidad and California. But most of it was buried thousands of feet below ground level. There, mixed with salt water and gas, it soaked into sandy pockets and pools where it was trapped and walled in by masses of hard rock through which the oil could not seep.

Hundreds of useful servants

Today these underground stores of oil, found in many parts of the world including Canada, are of great service to mankind. Not only do they provide the gasoline and oil to drive and lubricate our motor cars; they are also the source of essential petroleum products that serve the factory worker, the painter, the printer, the doctor, the railroadman, the roadmaker, the housewife and the farmer.

It may surprise you to know, for example, that Imperial Oil Limited makes several hundred individual petroleum necessities for Canadians, in its refineries in British Columbia, Alberta; Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Northwest Territories.

* According to geologists, some of today's oil-bearing earth strata were formed in the "Ordovician Age" which began 300 million years ago.
